141 medium size; the lips are thick, the teeth
142 medium; the chin is round, the ears are small and flattened; the hair is black and smooth; the beard is sparse and tough. The skin is smooth, the neck powerful and the extremities medium.

197 They[1] speak Chinese and wear Chinese
302 costume but nevertheless they shave their heads.
463 Their occupations are agriculture, gardening and various crafts. They make no celebration 844 when a child is born. The mother remains in 846 bed for fifteen days. The child receives its 553 name the day after it is born, in the presence of the mullah. The circumcision of boys is 852 performed on the eighth, ninth or tenth day.
583 A girl who is marrying receives a dowry. /332/
764 After death the body is wrapped in a white cloth
765 and buried directly in the ground. After the burial the mullahs and relatives gather for a 587 funeral feast. A widow may remarry after the 593 lapse of ninety days. In family life parental authority is very strong and the father is the 291 absolute head of the family. The women do not cover their faces. These people are outstanding 181 for their high morals, industry and hospitality.

101 12) The Kalmyks, and the Torgouts who 221 are related to them,[1] are nomads. The former nomadize in the Vernoye and Issyk-Kul uyezds of the Semirechie oblast, and the latter in the Kuldja region, around Kunges. Since 1878 the Torgouts have begun to migrate to Yulduz.

162 The 13) Sibo (13;318 persons), the 101 14) Solons (4,182 persons), and the 15) Kara-Kiti(3,032 persons) belong to the Mongol (read Manchu-Tungusic, ed.) peoples. The majority of them (21,932 persons, male and female) live

[1] [The Dungans, see cat. 116, p. 11--Analyst]